

We were very distressed in hearing that the N.A.B. is trying to attack X-M Radio Service. X-M is a great service and provides important information to its subscribers. What is the N.A.B. worried about? Not getting a big enough piece of the pie. For decades they have been the only show in town and now it appears they are afraid of a new technology that is actually providing a much needed service. What has happened to free enterprise in the American way of life. Is the N.A.B. so afraid of satellite radio that they must try to deny another organization the opportunity to succeed in a free society. Special interests are using their influence and money to stop competition. In the past RCA used its influence and power to get Congress to change the frequency of the FM band thus ruining the value of FM's inventor Major Armstrong's patents. He ultimately ended up committing suicide. Let's not do this again and let one company try to control what another company does just because they provide the same types of service. Our household has 4 XM receivers and love the programing provided. We request that you let XM provide their services and not give in to the pressure and influence of a giant organization that is afraid they will lose listeners and thus additional revenue.

Katrina Edwards
Gary Edwards
Mark Lemmons
Randy Spindler